COUNTRY MARKET NEWS

What's Going on at the County Market?

If you have driven by the Country Market lately, you may have noticed some changes going on! The Market is under construction – undergoing some major updates and upgrades as we expand the facility. We don't want to give you ALL the details, as we are planning to host a grand re-opening once everything is complete, but you can look forward to more at the Market before summer. We're adding more space for more products, hot and cold food service, a patio, and we can't wait for you to see what's in-store!

DINING NEWS

Clubhouse Bar & Grille: New Hours & Weekend To-Go Orders Info

The Clubhouse is now open Thursday-Sunday. Please see hours on page 6.

On Fridays and Saturdays, to-go orders will only be accepted from 11 a.m.-6 p.m. due to high demand for in-house dining. We apologize for any inconveniences and thank you for your understanding.

Reservations for in-house dining are highly recommended on Friday and Saturday evenings. Walk-ins are welcome and seating will be based upon a first come, first served wait-list for those without reservations.

Funds raised will support the ongoing work at the Historical Village. The deadline to submit donations is Friday, April 29. Checks are payable to the Innsbrook Historical Society. Please call Scott Francin at 636.489.9062 with any questions.

IBK Fishing Club: Fishing Tip of the Week

How to fish a jerkbait: A jerkbait is a solid lure that looks like a long, thin fish. Jerkbaits are built to suspend in the water. When the angler is not moving the lure, it generally keeps a constant depth. In cold water, as in the early spring, the fish that are becoming active are moving slowly. Suspended baits provide a tempting target. To fish a jerkbait correctly is to know your A, B, C's. Sing the ABC song slowly. A, B, C, pull, E, F, G, pull, and so on. Slow and jerky is the method for attracting activating fish.

The Bluebird Report

Our Innsbrook bluebirds have been very active this week. We now have 87 nests containing 184 eggs. If you have nest boxes on your Innsbrook property, please monitor them weekly or as often as you are on property. The Bluebird Society would appreciate it if you would send in your reports. To monitor your box, you need to check for four things:

- Total number of bluebird nests in your boxes.
- Total number of eggs in your boxes.
- Total number of chicks in your boxes.
- Total number of fledged chicks (if chicks have fledged do not count their nest in your nest count and pull the old nest and throw it away).

Please send all bluebird questions and/or reports to Shirley at saritsema@gmail.com.

PLEIN AIR ART CLASSES

What is Plein Air Art?

Innsbrook offers a variety of classes and workshops for owners and guests to experience different outlets of art and creativity, one of which is plein air art. This particular art form is focused on an artist leaving the four walls of their studio behind and experiencing painting and drawing in the landscape. The practice denotes a nineteenth-century style of painting outdoors, or with a strong sense of the open air, that became a central feature of French impressionism. Their desire to paint light and its changing, ephemeral qualities, coupled with the creation of transportable paint tubes and the box easel, allowed artists the freedom to paint "en plein air," which is the French expression for painting in open air.

Capture the beauty of Innsbrook with our plein air art classes using watercolors. Mary Dee Schmidt, a watercolor instructor at Missouri Botanical Gardens for over thirty years, will lead each class and teach new techniques and composition skills with professional demonstrations and group critiques. Each participant will receive individual and group instruction. All skill levels are welcome.

Supplies Needed:

We ask that you please bring your own art supplies (see list below), water, and a hat. If you are new to this experience and need to purchase art supplies, please contact Mary Dee at marydee.schmidt@gmail.com.

- One (1) - 1" flat brush
- One (1) - Basic watercolor paint kit
- One (1) - 140lb watercolor paper block
- Pencil
- Water cup for painting
- Folding chair

Available Classes:

- Wed., May 18 - The Commons
Registration required by May 17: https://innsbrook-owners-association.ticketleap.com/plein/)
- Wed., July 20 - Creek by Log Cabin
Registration required by July 19: https://innsbrook-owners-association.ticketleap.com/plein-cabin/
- Wed., Sept. 21 - Red Barn
Registration required by September 20: https://innsbrook-owners-association.ticketleap.com/plein-fh/

NATURE NOTES

Mussel Mania

Freshwater mussels are cold, wet, and clammy. Encased in a hard shell, these animals are as unique as their names: fat pocketbook, pink heel-splitter, fawnfoot and hickorynut.

Missouri has more than 60 mussel species that are important for healthy rivers, streams and ponds. They provide food for muskrats, raccoons, river otters and some birds. Mussels are filter feeders that clean water as they feed. Each species requires a particular set of water conditions as well as a specific host, usually a fish species to help incubate their young. Mussels lure host fish in by visually mimicking them, or with chemical cues, and then release their young to attach to the fish's gills. See live action in the video below.

Mussels require clean, undisturbed habitat to survive. Nearly half of Missouri's mussel species are of conservation concern and provide an early warning for our waterways. Because most mussels stay in a single spot their entire lives, they need stable living conditions. Their most serious threat is river damming, which reduces or removes currents necessary for most specie.

Take a Look Under the Shell:

- The rounded portion near the hinge is the umbo (or beak). The inside portion of this area is the beak (umbonal) cavity.
- The pseudocardinal teeth, anterior to the umbo, usually have two teeth on the left shell and one in the right.
- The lateral teeth (toward the posterior side) usually are double in the left shell and single in the right. These sets of teeth fit snugly together and prevent the two shells from shearing apart.
