INNSBROOK NEWS

Lake Water Quality Seminar

The Lakes of Missouri Volunteer Program, in cooperation with the University of Missouri, is a lake water quality testing effort. Every three weeks from April through September, nine volunteers test nine of our lakes. Our volunteers have been testing our lakes for six years. Tony Thorp from the University will be coming to Innsbrook on Saturday, September 6, to review the results of the testing. Come to the seminar at 9 a.m. in the Warren G. Wobbe Room at the Clubhouse. All property owners are welcome. With questions, call Dan Wollaeger at 314-852-4841.

Innsbrook Pool Update

Plans for a new swimming pool continue to develop as we move forward with the process of creating a new amenity core at Innsbrook for 2015. As details become finalized and additional progress is made, we will keep you posted on the news. Stay tuned!

Harmonie Church

Reminder: There are no more 6 p.m. masses at Harmonie Church this year. Services will start up again on the first Saturday after Memorial Day 2015.

Community Garden Produce

While it is called the "Community Garden", the plots and their produce are the property of the gardeners who pay for them and work very hard on them throughout the summer. Please do not harvest their products. Thank you!

Food Disposal

A reminder: Please don't dispose of food by discarding it along the sides of Innsbrook (or any) roads. It might seem harmless, but it's not healthy for property owners' pets or for our wildlife. Thank you!

NATURE NOTE

A Fungus Among Us

Giant puffball mushrooms have started showing at Innsbrook lately. They range from 8"-20", but are extra-large this year due to the above-average rainfall. From the MO Dept. of Conservation: When young and growing, the puffball's surface looks and feels like white leather and its inside resembles the texture and color of a marshmallow.

This is an excerpt from IBK property owners Richard McFall and Kathleen Kremer's summer edition of their community newsletter on living in harmony with nature and wildlife at Innsbrook.
