WITH GRATITUDE FROM GOD CARES MINISTRY

2017 proved to be another very busy and very successful year for God Cares in our mission to help veterans adapt to civilian life. Our main goal is to find them employment so they can provide for themselves. We truly believe there is dignity in being able to care for oneself and one's family. We have constant reminders of this as we hear back from our vets about how they have progressed toward their self-described version of success. In this effort to find employment, we work closely with the Missouri Career Centers, the Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment section of the Department of Veterans Affairs and other veteran organizations like Focus Marines and Folds of Honor. Thank you to everyone who has made our work possible!

nature note

BLUEBIRDS ARE BACK (AND SOME NEVER LEAVE!)

Innsbrook property owner Linda Detring spotted this group of appreciative eastern bluebirds conferring at her bird watering bowl on February 6! Bluebirds are year-round residents in Missouri, though some in the northern part of the state travel to the southern part for slightly milder temps. Bluebirds arrive at nesting sites in February and March. The male selects a nest site and offers the female food. The female accepts the site by bringing nest material. She builds the nest. Second - and even third - nestings can occur through the summer until as late as August. Nest failure and re-nesting can alter the latter part of this schedule. Here is the typical bluebird pattern:

- January-February: Wintering flocks begin to break up.
- February: Pairs arrive on the breeding territories, begin territorial singing.
- March: First nests constructed. First eggs laid.
- April-May: First brood fledges.
- May: Second nesting initiated.
- June: Second brood fledges.
- July: Rarely, third nesting initiated.
- August: Third brood fledges.
- September-October: Bluebirds in northern Missouri begin migration.
- September-December: Family groupings gradually join larger wandering flocks from mid-September through December.
