AGAPE Share-a-Christmas!

Every holiday season, we share the spirit of giving with local families. By partnering with AGAPE in Warrenton, we're able to give the joy of Christmas to some that would not otherwise experience it. Giving is easy! The Market Cafe and Creamery will have a giving tree set up after the Thanksgiving holiday, including ornaments of toys and gifts to purchase for children in the AGAPE program. Simply choose which item(s) you would like to donate, and drop your gifts off at The Market Cafe and Creamery. All gifts will be directly donated to AGAPE.

Property Owner Art Show

Come view the creative and unique submissions to this year's Property Owner Art show at Charrette Creek Commons. Open during regular building hours through November 30.

Madonna J. Laws

Madonna J. Laws, a retired paralegal, has been involved with fiber arts for most her life starting with a sewing class when she was 13 years old, moving into tailoring and embroidery and then morphing into basket weaving.

Carolyn Cranston

Truly, it has been a rewarding experience and honor for me to be a part of our IBK Artisan Group. These creative members have helped and encouraged me in painting, as well as in fellowship. Watercolor painting is my new passion as it is easy to carry around the paints and then "clean up." What a joy it is to work with the beauty of "Flora and Fauna."

Mark Pohlman

I grew up in an Air Force family, moving every two years for the first 18 years of my life. When my father retired and moved home to St. Louis, I attended Mizzou for college, where I met my wife of 41 years. Graduating as an engineer, I worked with computers and linear accelerators for the majority of my career in the field of Radiation Therapy. When I recently retired, I looked for a hobby where I could leave the computers behind and use my hands. I found wood carving with all the wood laying around me at Innsbrook. A big thank you to Dan for all the cedar! While starting out with a Dremel tool, I've moved up to chainsaws and angle grinders! I've been having a ball and hope you enjoy the carvings.

Mary Redders

I am the happiest brushing paint on watercolor paper, baking a decadent dessert or growing flowers. My husband and I have been an Innsbrook cabin owner for three years. "The ladies Love to Paint" is a group of very talented ladies I paint with every week in Columbia, MO. We strive to always challenge ourselves and try new techniques and subject matter.

Carol Kappel

Carol has always loved to draw and paint. She has taken many classes and workshops over the years, but is primarily self-taught. In 2019, she started the Innsbrook Art Guild with several friends. She is always inspired and encouraged by other artists here at Innsbrook and is content to be a "life-long learner." A teacher once told her to "paint what makes your heart sing" and that is what she attempts to do.

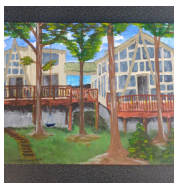
John Hachtel

John started painting with oils back in 1963 with no formal training. His painting was inspired by Bob Ross and Robert Wood in his early days of painting. Over the years, John has learned that to do your own thing is best and more rewarding.

Mike Binnette

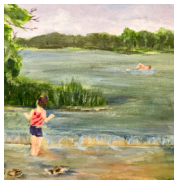
BFA Kansas City Art Institute. Mike just retired and is trying to get his stroke back - painting and golf!

Ken Zehnder



Graduate of Bob Ross School of Happy Clouds. And retired orthopedic surgeon.

Cynthia Bowers



Cynthia (Cindy) Bowers has been photographing Innsbrook for three decades. She carries her camera everywhere to capture those intimate portraits of nature that are so common throughout the Innsbrook community. Recently, Cindy has taken up new types of media including acrylic pours and watercolor and acrylic painting.

Ron Watkins

My wife, kids and I, have been coming to our chalet at IBK on Shadow Lake since 1991. My hobbies are reading (history/non-fiction), playing bad golf, playing worse bridge in our couples' group or with friends, traveling, gardening, working out, music (most all genres) and stocking our wine cellar, and then consuming, with friends, the wine that we stock. I sculpted back in my early 20's but took a 45-plus, years' hiatus. My piece, "Honu," is influenced by our frequent travels to Kauai. One of our favorite activities is watching green sea turtles down near Poi Pu. "Honu" is the Hawaiian name for "turtle."

Deborah Baldini

I grew up in an artistic home. My mother was an artist, trained in abstract impressionism. Both she and my father painted, sketched, and created sculpture. We did not have a dining room; it was their studio and I was always invited to explore there. Although my career took me to Spain and the study of Spanish literature, history and culture, art was always very much a part of my life and research. I am particularly fascinated by watercolor and photography.

NATURE NOTES

Hiking for Health and Happiness

A walk around the block has measurable health benefits. Yet, if you want to take it next level and ramp up your health and happiness, try hiking. From out your door down to your core, research shows multiple benefits for mind and body. With cooling temps and changing colors, fall is a great time to hit the trails.

Besides enjoying nature's surround sounds, fresh scents, and colors, you can boost your brain power and creative thinking.

Whether trail running or walking, the physical benefits of hiking are wide-ranging. The uneven terrain of paths that wind up, down, and side-ways, work a variety muscle groups and help with overall balance--boosting the energy you use by 28 percent compared to walking on flat surfaces (Time Magazine). Hikers report benefits like weight loss, stress relief, better sleep, and more positive thoughts.

New hikers can start out slow and build up with a variety of trails and scenery from short walks to more moderate hikes. Each of Innsbrook's seven scenic hiking trails will please both the Sunday stroller and the avid hiker. Explore the unique Innsbrook beauty in your own backyard by checking out each of our tails to see which is the best fit for you! https://www.innsbrook-resort.com/recreation/nature-trails/.
