Dun Right Stables: Things to Remember

Stables Privacy Reminder: The Stables at Innsbrook is a privately-run facility managed by Dun Right Stables and is NOT open to any resident or non-boarder without an appointment. Please respect the signs when visiting around the barns and outside the fence. The horses at the stables are all privately owned and are not owned by Innsbrook. Residents and guests are encouraged to go by the Red Barn and visit with our goats and donkey outside when they are present (they love the attention!), but please do not feed them or any animal on the property. We cannot guarantee that the animals will be outside all the time, especially during the summertime heat.

Please make an appointment to come by and visit with staff if needed. Guests are not allowed inside the stables gates or in any of the barns without an appointment. Staff and their family work and live full time on the property, please respect their privacy and work.

The Stables no longer offer trail rides as Innsbrook does not own horses. Dun Right does offer private lessons, hay rides, and other programs – please check social media and the Innsbrook event calendar for more information.

Slow Down, You're at Innsbrook!

It's the busy season at Innsbrook – and we know you're in a hurry to get here. However, when you're here, there's no reason to rush, you're at Innsbrook. This is the place to slow things down, take it easy. Take a breath, ease up on that gas pedal and your blood pressure. Please review our rules of the road.

- Our posted speed limits are 17 ½ and 23 mph. This is due to the fact that there are many winding roads and blind corners here. Slower = safer.
- Golf carts and UTVs must be driven by a licensed driver. If you do not have a driver's license, you should not be driving a cart or UTV, and your young child should not either. Please do not jeopardize the safety of others.
- Yield at all converging roadways, giving main roads the right of way. If there is no stop sign, the main road has the right of way.
- Watch for pedestrians, cyclists, equestrian traffic, and other wildlife.

ODE TO MY WIFE OF FIFTY YEARS

So many years ago in May
A sunny, breezy, cloudless day.
Who knew as I approached the church
I'd spy her and my heart would lurch?

First saw her with her back a-turn.
She pivots, I began to yearn.
To touch her cheeks of softest hue.
And search her eyes of lively blue.

How can it be, I fail to see
Her lovely smile now shines on me.
My thoughts so quickly rearranged
A moment, life forever changed.

Her grip on me, is sudden strong
For her I ache, for her I long.
And not a minute I can waste
Her cheeks to kiss, her lips to taste.

And then my life it starts anew
With her my wife, so sweet, so true.
I wake to see her lovely face.
Anticipate her snug embrace.

My gaze on her from up above
Awed by the beauty of my love.
Her chest is soft and warm as toast.
She opes' her arms, I hold her close.

Talented, kind, in word and deed.
She's all a man could ever need.
I oft think it's a mystery
That she could care for such as me.

She's left me vexed a time or four.
The truth, I've vexed her so much more.
And still she finds it in her heart
A niche for me, a special part.

The years have spooled and time has passed.
And she assured that we would last.
Oh there've been laughs and there've been tears.
And where'd they go those fifty years?

As I think back where we begin.
Her at my side, through thick, through thin.
The smile's still there, the eyes so blue.
She's still my girl, now gray, still true.

Reading these eight beats per measure
Will she see it's her I treasure?
And with these verses will she know
At fifty years, I love her so?

Fall is passing and winter nears.
But I'd ne'er trade those fifty years.
A lucky man as time doth wend.
Sharing those years with my best friend.

The Bluebird Report

This week our bluebirds are down to 40 active nests containing 60 eggs, 79 chicks and 20 more chicks have fledged. Once a bluebird pair finishes the breeding season, they are no longer tied to their breeding area and wander freely in search of plentiful food. They particularly like to eat grasshoppers, crickets and spiders. When cold weather comes and insects are hard to find they switch over to eating berries almost exclusively. They swallow the berries whole because they cannot easily crack them open with their beaks. They like berries from sumac, dogwood, Japanese honeysuckle, haw, red cedar, viburnum, and Virginia creeper.

Please send your reports and/or questions to Shirley at saritsema@gmail.com.

IBK Fishing Club: Fishing Tip of the Week

Fish feed in the shade. It's important to remember this time of year that fish try to avoid the sun. You will find them under overhanging branches and shady spots. Many fish even seek shade underwater. They will be near the base of rocks and fallen trees. Try fishing in the shade. Best presentations deliver bait near the bottom, as far from the sun as possible, so go deep.

Come get more tips from Innsbrook's best anglers when the Fishing Club gathers for coffee on the porch of The Market Café and Creamery on August 20 at 9 a.m.

SECURITY REMINDERS

It's always good to have a little reminder about some of the important policies that we have in place for the safety of our property owners and their families. Please familiarize yourself with the information below:

- Remember – always dial 911 first in the event of an emergency. After that, if you have the chance, you may wish to call Innsbrook Security at the Main Gate at ext.9400 to make them aware of your situation. Upon arrival, Innsbrook Security will lead first responders to the location of the emergency.
- All guests must be registered with our Security Department via the Property Owner Portal prior to their arrival. All guests must enter Innsbrook through the Main Gate or the West Gate during staffed hours. Find a link to the portal at www.innsbrook-resort.com/propertyowners/guest-registration. If it is your first visit, you will need to complete a one-time registration to gain access. You can also register guests through the Innsbrook mobile app.
- Property owners now receive email confirmation of all guest authorizations to their property. You may also log in to the portal and elect to receive email or text alerts when your guests arrive. Please log in to make sure we have your current email and phone number.
- Guests registered to your property (this includes renters as well) are your responsibility. For the peace of our community and your neighbors, please be sure your guests or renters (if applicable) are aware of the rules.
- Only owners are able to register guests to the property. Renters and guests are not able to add additional guests to the property.
- Golf cart and recreational vehicle drivers must be at least 16 years of age and have a valid driver's license. All vehicles must be properly insured.
- All property owner vehicles are required to have car stickers. These stickers are for owners and their immediate family members only – stickers are not to be given to friends or employees. The stickers never expire and will only be deactivated if you sell your Innsbrook property or if they are misused.
- Car stickers must be affixed to your vehicle's windshield and should be placed in the lower-left corner of the driver's side.
- Slow down and relax! Please obey the posted speed limits for the safety of all.
- Anyone caught sneaking guests or contractors in through remote gates will have all of the stickers assigned to their lot deactivated. Stickers can be re-activated for a fee, which you will only be allowed to do one time.
- Trash should be kept IN dumpsters and compactors, not ON dumpster lids or beside the bins (because animals will get into it and make a mess!).
- Is your property's security alarm functioning properly? Does it need service? Send an email to alarmsystems@innsbrook-resort.com with your issues, requests or questions.
- Dogs must be on a leash at all times and are not allowed on Innsbrook beaches.
- Personal fireworks are prohibited.
- Clearly identify the entrance to your property for guests and emergency responders with an Innsbrook lot sign! The sign features the Innsbrook logo and matches the look of Innsbrook street signs. Call ext. 9180 or email information@innsbrook-resort.com to find out more.
- Renters and guests need to be put into the portal ASAP to avoid hold up at the gate. Please be sure renters coming to your property are aware of the address number for a smooth and quick transition at the gate.
- Please call ext. 9150 for services issues after hours or on weekends.
- For weather related power outages, please call Cuivre River Electric (800)-392-3709 for an ETA on when power will be restored.
- For issues with Innsbrook's cable tv service please, call Matt Aubuchon at ext. 9175

NATURE NOTES

Why, You Don't Look a Day Over 30!

The life of a tree can be measured by time, like a person's life. You can learn about a tree's life by looking at the rings of its wood. A new ring is formed each year, so you can tell how old a tree was by counting the rings on the stump.

The size and spacing of the rings relates to the growing conditions during the tree's lifetime. A series of narrow rings indicates a period of drought or competition from neighboring trees that slowed growth. Wide, evenly spaced rings record good growing conditions. Scientists study tree rings to piece together information on past climate and land use. By comparing rings from living and dead trees, they can determine the age of historical buildings by looking at the wood used in the structures.

In the history of just one old oak tree, thousands of creatures influence and are influenced by its growth. In summer, many animals feast on oak leaves. June beetles chew circular holes in the leaves at night. Walkingsticks consume entire leaves, leaving only the veins. Many kinds of caterpillars eat oak leaves. All of these insects, in turn, become food for birds, snakes, lizards and bats.

Oaks also provide shelter for wildlife. Chipmunks can live among the roots of the tree. Squirrels build spherical nests of leaves and twigs in the branches or find shelter in tree cavities. Many bird species nest in oaks, including jays, warblers, tanagers and woodpeckers. When an oak dies, bats, owls, and raccoons may move into its hollows.

You can read and discover trees, too! When you pass a tree stump, or split wood for your fire, count the tree rings and observe all the surrounding wildlife. Next time you and the kids are out exploring Innsbrook, see if they can figure out the age of a tree and tell you about its life!
